

Greetings,

We spent some time on the cape last month, staying in a cottage with amazing views of Cape Cod Bay.

The window pane leaning against the fence in the photo below makes me think of how grateful I am for the opportunities Alpha-Interiors has brought into our life together. Vin & I want to thank you for allowing us into your businesses, your offices and homes to serve you.

We have the new line of Hunter Douglas samples ready for you to see. Contact us for an appointment.

I have joined Entrepreneurial Women's Network (EWN), and renewed our membership as A.S.I.D. Industry Partners and am looking forward to continuing these professional relationships which will enable us to be of greater service to you. We are now Hunter Douglas Priority Dealers and will be attending more informational seminars beginning this fall. I am looking to meeting with you soon.

The fabric is available in cut yardage so that you can accessorize your room.

35 years ago, Vinnie and I exchanged traditional wedding vows in Westport at my home church. Coming from different religious traditions our first marital challenge began before we said "I do." On that summer day, the wedding was delayed when someone realized they'd forgotten to pick up Grandma (Vincenza) Costabile, for whom Vin is named. The guests were murmuring amongst one another wondering about the long delay. Perhaps the bride or groom was having second thoughts? When Grandma Costabile made it to the church, the bridesmaids and I were wilting beneath our layers of taffeta and silk. Photos of the groomsmen show beads of perspiration as proof of the day's 90 plus degree temperatures.

During the wedding reception, family members were placing bets about how long the marriage would last. I was still in my 18th year. Vin was just 21. We danced to Nat King Cole's "Too Young" as one of our special songs. My favorite line then and now, "Then, one day they may recall, we were not too young at all."

The odds were against us from the beginning. We were not deterred from our shared vision of living the best life we could, together. We have weathered our share of storms and agree it took more than young love and an enlightened vision to bring us through. Marriage is not for the faint of heart, nor is it for those of little faith. Vin and I find being in business together brings great joy. We appreciate the opportunities for relationships with you our wonderful clients and friends. We are grateful for the opportunity to do business with you!

A special thank you for the recent photo goes to Doreen Birdsell of the Inn at Cook Street in Provincetown MA.

Sincerely,

Vin & Denise Costabile
